how you are doing! We'd love to hear from you."

Old Fort Niagara Executive Director Robert Emerson explained, "The fort has a full schedule of events and programs planned for 2020, but these are currently on hold due to the COVID-19 situation. The fort is currently closed to the public, but a limited number of staff are on site to provide security and routine maintenance. Events and programs scheduled for the near future will be rescheduled when the situation normalizes."

In his March 26 message to patrons, Emerson wrote, "Just because you might be trapped at home doesn't mean that you can't enjoy the colorful history of the fort! Please visit our Facebook page for daily highlights of objects and stories that pertain to the fort's history. You can also take a virtual tour through our website. There's also a webcam atop the lighthouse that provides a view of the French Castle."

John Kinney, president of Whirlpool Jet Boat Tours, said his company is preparing for a "new world" when it reopens to the public.

"At this moment in time, we can't say with any level of certainty, when the world will normalize enough for tourism-related activities like Whirlpool Jet Boat Tours (to) resurface on the 'fun to do' radars of U.S. residents from the tri-state area.

Furthermore, the return of international travelers, which Niagara Falls, USA, relies upon so heavily, are in all likelihood going to be rarely seen in 2020, and maybe longer?" he said. "WJBT is preparing for a 'new world' when health professionals give us the 'OK' to open our doors.

"Clearly, WJBT will be making sure our facilities are free of the COVID-19 virus, and safe for all our guests. When this occurs, we will be excited to show-off Lewiston's beautiful new waterfront, which all Lewistonians should come and see after the finishing touches are completed during the month of April."

Kinney reminded patrons his company, like so many in New York, overcame obstacles and hardships in the past, and can do it again.

"WJBT has dealt with many, many challenges over our 28 years on the Niagara River. WJBT dealt with the challenges of the closure of WNY manufacturing in the early 1990s, the shock of the 9/11 terror attacks of 2001, the SARS epidemic of 2003, the banking crisis of 2008 and 2009, and ever-increasing border security and passport requirements of the last 10 years," he said. "However, the ramifications of COVID-19 may prove to be the most challenging for both our families and the businesses where we work to ultimately recover. Nonetheless, I am 1,000% confident this will eventually end, hopefully very soon. When that happens, WJBT will do our part to make life in Niagara amazing again."

WHAT ABOUT FESTIVALS?

On Thursday, Niagara River Region Chamber of Commerce President Jennifer Pauly said, "We would hope summer festivals and events would be able to take place, however, we have to be prepared for anything – for them to happen, not happen, be postponed. It's a tough time for festival organizers right now."

Additional planning meetings are scheduled for next week.

The Chamber of Commerce organizes the Lewiston Smelt Festival, Taste of Lewiston, Northwest Jazz Festival and Harvest & Hops Festival.

NFP reached out to the Lewiston GardenFest and Lewiston Art Festival planners, but had not received a reply in time for this issue.
