

Center Street still open, as construction begins

Crews from Alden-based Concrete Applied Technologies Corp. began the next phase of Center Street's renovation on Monday. Milling, corner cuts and paving will take place over the next two weeks.

Pictured is the corner of Center and North Eighth streets, and the pavement in front of The Orange Cat.

At Monday's Village of Lewiston work session, Mayor Anne Welch reiterated the roadway will remain open to motorists. However, lane changes and temporary no-parking zones are in place.

This resurfacing project is funded by and under the supervision of the New York State Department of Transportation. NYS DOT also will replace street signs and light poles.

Village of Lewiston seeks input on digital sign proposal

Trustees in the Village of Lewiston will hold a public information session at 6 p.m. Monday, May 16, to discuss the viability of adding a digital information sign at the corner of Center Street and Portage Road. This Academy Park marker would replace the recently retired black and white letterboard sign.

Initial cost for the two-sided sign and stone pillars is $60,444. Funding would come from the sale of the "Big Yellow House" at 475 Ridge St.

The meeting will take place in the Morgan Lewis Village Boardroom inside the Red Brick Municipal Building, 145 N. Fourth St.

In other news from this week's work session:

- The Village Board approved a motion to authorize the levy of real property taxes for the 2022-23 tax warrant and directing the clerk to receive and collect taxes in the amount of $1,232,921.00; a re-levy of water and sewer charges in the amount of $26,396.51; and a total warrant to collect $1,259,317.51. The tax rate was set at $7.764858 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Trustees gave Emery Simon permission to place a temporary, 30-foot-by-45-foot tent on the Lewiston Stone House parking lot for the duration of the spring and summer months. Simon used this setup for his 2021 outdoor season.

Protecting Gardener's Health

Unless you are already aware of the health benefits of organic gardening, organic lawn care and eating organic foods, gardeners and their families can be exposed to pesticides.

Pesticides are used in the growing of all commercial non-organic crops, on home lawn and gardens, in any public place where grass grows like golf courses or parks, for insect and bug control in homes, flea collars and flea shampoos for pets and often under the foundations of homes.

Very few pesticides are specific to a certain species. Instead, most work against basic hormones, enzymes and other body systems of ANY living organism. Pesticides can disrupt many types of hormones, interfere with the nervous system function, especially neurotransmitters, can cause genetic damage, destroy digestive enzymes, be widely carcinogenic, cause infertility and who knows what else, since most are not sufficiently tested!

Humans are also exposed to pesticides through the fat tissue of commercially-grown livestock, from residues on all commercially-grown food, and through environmental contact. Pesticides especially accumulate inside the home.

Protect your health by finding natural alternatives to chemicals, buy organic when possible, use a natural wash designed to remove pesticides on your produce to remove chemical residue as water only does not remove them.
