They were attracted by the joyful colors and because they've never seen anything like it. They asked me about the message, and they were really happy and supportive, saying that the message is so important and that we all need it in our society nowadays.

"I also had the chance to show the mural to my own children, who were really happy and had so much fun running all over the painted path. This was a happy and joyful experience, having the chance to paint in such a beautiful and peaceful environment was really inspiring."

Artpark & Company also will continue "Sonic Trails," a visionary series of free site-reactive audio experiences presented in a mobile app designed by The Holladay Brothers in collaboration with major BIPOC voices: Rhiannon Giddens with Yo-Ma, DJ Spooky, Kronos Quartet, and recordings of local indigenous artists curated by Michele-Elise Burnett.

Each of the five experiences is curated and co-produced by SoZo Creative. The free app and site-activated sound experience takes the visitors on five distinct journeys on Artpark's trails connecting them with the Niagara land, unique geology and legacy. For more information, visit <https://www.artpark.net/sonic-trails>.

Artpark offers free public Wi-Fi in the main areas of the park.

Bauer, Artpark's board chair, said, "We are so fortunate to have Artpark in Western New York. Our latest installations are incredible. 'Sonic Trails' celebrates the magnificent beauty of Artpark's natural setting. 'Murmuration,' a world-class interactive installation, lets us take time to reflect on biodiversity, extinction and cohabitation. Our newest public work, 'Unity in Diversity,' speaks to our soul; it's interesting pattern and flow lets us reflect how beautifully we are all connected."

Artpark President Sonia Kozlova Clark said, "Just like the beauty of Artpark's campus, our programming continues to evolve into the autumn season, giving space for diverse voices and boundless opportunities for imagination. With the stunning 'Murmuration' and evocative 'Unity in Diversity,' as well as the innovative and highly emotional sound art of 'Sonic Trails,' Artpark is thrilled to welcome everyone to the trails of the Niagara Gorge."
